'HEARING THE SQUIRREL'S HEARTBEAT'

Hearing the Squirrel's Heartbeat

A collection of Assemblies

Penelope Penney

If we had a keen vision and feeling of all ordinary human life, it would be like hearing the grass grow and the squirrel's heart beat, and we should die of that roar which lies on the other side of silence.

George Eliot, Middlemarch

This is a collection of assemblies written and given by Penelope Penney, the LDBS's secondary adviser who has been headteacher of three secondary schools. Either for adaptation for use in assembly or simply as a private fund of 'thoughts for the day' they make excellent reading.

Copies of this book will be on sale privately from 20 November 2006.
